

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a portable point-of-sale transaction method and system allowing information from a cheque to be scanned for reporting to a cheque clearing service. In particular, the system includes a portable scanner for scanning information relating to a transaction, a portable point-of-sale terminal (POST) for receiving the information, for reporting information to a transaction approval service and for receiving transaction approval or denial from the transaction approval service.

09885050 062101
TOT 290 0505050